Street Dance 27

Street Dance & Streetfunk

Streetfunk has teamed up with Brighton Language College International to create a unique Street Dance experience for international students aged 13–17.

With over 20 years’ experience, Streetfunk is an established Brighton & Hove dance organisation working with hundreds of young people every week.

Founded by experienced dancer, choreographer and educator JP Omari, Streetfunk’s professional teaching team makes dance energetic, inclusive and accessible to students of all abilities.

Students will experience authentic street dance training while developing their confidence, creativity, musicality and individual style.

The programme is designed around variety and discovery, allowing students to experience different street dance styles rather than spending their stay rehearsing one routine for a final performance.

Alongside their dance sessions, students study English at Brighton Language College International, communicating in English with teachers and other international students throughout their stay.

This gives students the opportunity to combine English language learning, British youth culture, music, movement and street dance while making friends from around the world.
